Try your luck at celebrating St. Paddy's Day

By IRA KANTOR

Sunday's parade may have passed you by, but rest assured, you can still go green on the real St. Patrick's Day today.

For starters, head to the Boston Children's Museum, where a St. Patrick's Day celebration is set to kick off at 11 a.m. with Irish games, music and dances.

Then if you're lucky enough to have the name Patrick, Patricia or "Patch," come on down to Burton's Grill at 1363 Boylston St., where you will receive a free appetizer anytime between 11:30 a.m. and 10 p.m.

Have the word "Pat" anywhere in your name?

This deal's for you as well, but remember, it's only at the chain's Back Bay location.

Finally, cap things off at Boston's Seaport Hotel, which plays host to maestros of Irish music tonight.

Inside the hotel's Tamo Bar, you can keep those Irish eyes smiling with free performances by fiddler extraordinaire Seamus Connolly with Laurel Martin and Kevin McElroy from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and 8 to midnight.

For those in Suffolk County, don't forget today's also Evacuation Day, which commemorates the evacuation of British forces from Boston during the Revolutionary War.
